GEORGE II. Regis.

An Act for the King's most Gracious, General, and free Pardon.

GEORGE R.

THE King's most Excellent Majesty Preamble, having already shewed His Royal Inclination to Mercy, by many particular Instances of Grace to such as had rendered themselves obnoxious to the Laws, and subject to the highest Penalties, by being concerned in the late unnatural Rebellion; and His Majesty being desirous of quieting the Minds of His Subjects in general, hath, upon mature Deliberation, resolved and determined to grant His general and free Pardon, in a large and bountiful Manner; not doubting but that, however it may be received by those who are obstinately bent on the Ruin of their Country, it will raise a due Sense of Gratitude in all who have been artfully misled into treasonable Practices against His Person and Government, and preserve them and others from standing in Need of the like Mercy for the future, when such Clemency

His Majesty's General and Free Pardon to all Persons and Places concerned in the late Rebellion.

may not be so expedient for the publick Welfare, as it would be agreeable to His Majesty's Inclinations; and hoping that all His Subjects, by this Act of Grace, will be induced henceforth more carefully to observe the Laws, and live in a loyal and dutiful Obedience to His Majesty, therefore His Majesty is well pleased and contented, that it be enacted by the Authority of this present Parliament; and be it enacted by the Authority of the same, in Manner and Form following (that is to say) That all and every His Majesty's Subjects, as well Spiritual as Temporal of this His Majesty's Realm of Great Britain, their Heirs, Successors, Executors, and Administrators, and every of them, and all and singular Bodies Politick and Corporate, and their Successors, and all Cities, Boroughs, Shires, Stewartries, Ridings, Hundreds, Lathes, Rapes, Wapentakes, Towns, Villages, Hamlets, and Tythings, and every of them, shall be, by the Authority of this present Parliament, acquitted, pardoned, released, and discharged against the King's Majesty, His Heirs, and Successors, and every of them, of, and from all, and all Manner of Treasons, Misprisions of Treasons, Felonies, treasonable and seditious Words, or Libels, Leasing-making, Misprisions of Felony, seditious and unlawful Meetings, and Conventicles, and all Offences, whereby any Person may be charged with the Danger and Penalty of Premunire.; and also of and from all Riots, Routs, Offences, Contempts, Trespases,
